DEAREST MOM,

THIS IS THE GREATEST VACATION EVER — THERE IS SOMETHING GOING ON ALL THE TIME. THE PLACE HAS CHANGED SO MUCH YOU LEFT I'VE JUST GOT TO BRING YOU UP TO DATE.

There is a radio station here now — WGNU — and it's great ... really swings. They have a fun thing going called the WGNU CLUB DERBY AND ALL THE CLUBS IN TOWN ARE IN IT. They get together and when they buy something from a merchant who is a member of the CLUB DERBY they are given stamps, (IF THEY REMEMBER TO ASK FOR THEM) — then the stamps are turned in to a really neat girl and she figures up all the points. When the club gets the most wins a 1965 RUCR STATION WAGON, and then there's a COLOR TV SET and of course MONEY. This is OPPORTUNITY MONTH; and that means that only the clubs who haven't been big money club winners are eligible for JULY AND MOM YOU CAN GET THOSE SANDS OF EXTRA POINTS FROM THE STORES WHO ARE SPONSORS THIS MONTH. FOR INSTANCE: the wedding was simply beautiful (do you suppose I'll ever get married?) and Aunt Ella got loads of ex-stamps because FRENCH'S PELLEMORE BAKERY made the cake; and LAZENBY PHOTOGRAPHERS took all Marge's and Gus's pictures; and KLINE'S INTERIOR DECORATORS practically did the whole apartment. Marge looked beautiful and she says she never uses an iron but MERLE NORMAN (COSMETIC) by the way ... bought you a darling MERLE NORMAN LIPSTICK BRUCELET ... oh yes, Aunt Louise said to tell you she has a lot of pounds and its because of that wonderful sausage from "MUELLER'S SAUSAGE MART" and those BURGER CHIEF BURGERS. Gus got the best "corking" sport coat from SCHIRMER'S MENS & BOYS WEAR to take to NASSAU — ITS A DREAM ...

Mother I'll almost hate to leave here — the excitement is so great ... it's the biggest contest to hit this town and the clubs are so close that its like peanut butter and jelly ...

Mom I was taking my blue linen into TRI-CITY CLEANERS the other day and Aunt Louise was with me so we went by FRIEDMAN'S STORE. THEY ARE THE MOST SANDS Aunt Louise bought a divine Sealy mattress — Friedman's are having a special and you know how Uncle Walter always griped — you should see him now — he's just as happy as a robin waiting for a worm.

Mommy, I love you and Pops dearly but please let me stay to see who wins the Club Derby Contest — its so close I'd just get car sick all the way home I'd be so nervous — besides, the car won't be ready for a while. You know what, MATHIS REPAIR is a CLUB DERBY SPONSOR and I took it in there — since he fixed the toaster and stuff I wanted him to fix the fender so I could get the BONUS POINTS (YOU CAN GET ALL THE EXTRA COUPONS YOU WANT FROM WGNU) but he sent me down the street. Do you think you can talk Daddy into $28.89 for me? Did I forget to tell you I somehow broke the right front fender? But don't worry, I'll pay you back — someday I'm going to be a big radio star like Ann Bartow (she has the WGNU CLUB DERBY GNUS at 9:30 & 2:20) and then I'll buy Uncle Walter a new Lilac tree too.

It Happened in Southern Illinois

Marine Corps Tradition Nearly 2 Centuries Old

By John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University

This nation, after the fashion of its English ancestry, might have "muddled through" somehow without the United States Marine Corps, but those who served in it have their grave doubts.

With present news reports saying, "The Marines..." this "The Marines..." that, it might be of interest to take a look at the Corps that is nearing a span of two centuries, although it was formally created only a scant 107 years ago, July 11, 1798.

One hundred and ninety years ago, Robert Mullan was keeper of the Tin Tavern on Front Street in Philadelphia. The Tin was a place known for its roast beef and beer.

Perhaps that is one of the reasons why it was a gathering place for that dissatisfied element among which the approaching American Revolution was brewing.

Sea-Going Soldiers
A small squadron of merchant vessels was even then being converted into warships. This was months before the Declaration of Independence.

The idea was not entirely new. The Greeks and Romans regularly had kept armed details on all their war galleys. These details were for personal combat when that time came, and perhaps to keep the galley slaves in subjection. It thus was logical that the bellicent colonists would do likewise.

Mullan accordingly began to sign recruits for the projected Marine Corps and was commissioned captain of the first company.

Early recruiting posters painted a glowing picture of service in the Corps. Assurance was given that members would receive ample and appetizing rations, along with a daily issue of good wine, rum or brandy and a pint of lemonade. They also were assured that upon their return from forays, womankind would greatly admire them.

Recruits Plentiful
Recruits in numbers flocked to the Corps.

John Hopkins led to raid British posts in the Bahamas in January 1776. He took along 200 Marines. Hopkins' forces captured two British forts and brought away 80 cannon and mortar along with a considerable quantity of gun powder, much needed by the colonial forces. It is said they received the powder promised.

Marines were active during the Revolution, fighting at several places on land and in practically all sea battles. At the end of the conflict they, like the other armed forces of the former colonies, were allowed to melt away.

Finding that the new nation could not get along without established military forces, Congress began to build them anew. The Corps began at Tin Tavern in the autumn of 1775 was reestablished by congressional action on July 11, 1798.

Its authorized strength was set at 33 officers and 848 men. The Corps established today is set forth the purposes it was to serve. The outline of it is ended with "and are authorized to go on shore as the President in his discretion shall direct." This permits their use for almost any purpose.

From that July 11 in 1798, the U. S. Marine Corps has been in continuous existence. It has been in action. Marines have made countless unnumbered battles from the fall of the year 1775 when they began at Tin Tavern.

"Situation Well in Hand"
Long ago, one naval commander, when asked for a report, replied, "The Marines have landed and have the situation well in hand."

There may be former Marines who are no ex-Marines; for once a Marine, always a Marine.

Tax Rules on Foreign Securities Explained

United States persons who acquired foreign securities from a foreign person during the three months ended June 30 should file the special return and pay any tax due on or before Aug. 2. Internal Revenue District Director Jay G. Philpott said today that brokers handling such transactions should file Information Returns by Aug. 2 also.

The Interest Equalization Tax Law passed last year imposes an excise tax on acquisitions by United States persons of foreign securities from a foreign person. In most cases, a U. S. resident acquiring foreign securities from another U. S. person also must file a return, although the tax does not apply.

Philpott said forms and instructions are available at Internal Revenue offices.

John Farrell, Revenue Agent, to Practice Law

John A. Farrell, Granite City, has entered the practice of law in Alton in association with the law firms of Coughlin & Carter, partners, and Hamilton & Jones. Officers of these firms are located in the Effgen Building, Third and Henry streets, Alton. Farrell had been employed by the Internal Revenue Service as an internal revenue agent or estate tax examiner since 1955. He was assigned to the Granite City U. S. office from 1956 until it was closed in September 1961. During the past five years, he has been responsible for examination of all federal estate and gift tax returns referred for audit in an eight-county area consisting of Monroe, St. Clair, Madison, Calhoun, Jersey, Greene, Marion and Montgomery counties.

Farrell received his bachelor of law degree from St. Louis University in 1961, having attended the evening division and was admitted to the Illinois bar in that year. He previously received a law degree from the University of Illinois. He resides with his wife and three children at 8219 Wallow Avenue.

24 Members of County Board Getting Pay 'Cut'

About half of the members of the Madison county board of supervisors will receive a pay cut at their monthly meeting Wednesday morning in Edwardsville. County Auditor John Krzyzak said that the per diem rate of 24 of the board members will be cut back from $30 to $15, the rate in effect last year.

The county board voted a per diem increase at its April meeting before 23 newly elected members were seated. The increase for members who did not run for re-election last April was questioned at the June meeting by Roger Eble, assistant supervisor of Wood River township, a new member of the board.

Members who have two meetings per year, even though one is at night, will be paid for only one meeting, Krzyzak added. He pointed out previously that he had been only several instances of this.

Krzyzak has asked for a legal opinion on the two points from Joseph Bartylak, state's attorney, who informed board members that he will have a statement prepared for the Wednesday meeting.

Man to Work 10 Days

Charles King, no home address, was sentenced to work 10 days for the city, with nights spent in jail, by Magistrate Hiscott Thursday after pleading guilty to an intoxication charge. The fine amounted to $45 plus costs. He was arrested the previous day.

Driving Charge Filed

James E. Gilson, 2234 Madison avenue, was arrested at 11:15 p.m. Thursday at Fehling road and Bradley avenue on a charge of careless driving. He was summoned for an appearance July 28.

Hit-and-Run Accident

Jimmy E. Stairs, 24504 Iowa street, reported at 3 p.m. Thursday that the left side of his parked car had been struck by a hit-and-run auto at 1 p.m. that day.

Avoid Over-Insulation, Home Owners Cautioned

Is it possible to have your home over-insulated?

Yes, say engineers and testing laboratory reports. Moisture condensation is the primary index to this too-much-of-a-good thing condition.

If walls sweat, if window panes fog easily, if mildew forms in remote corners, it may be due to such a degree of insulation that the interior of the building provides no way for moisture produced by such activities as dishwashing, laundering or even bathing to dissipate.

The condition of over-insulation is not rare. Many a homeowner, plagued by checking and flaking paint on the exterior of his home, blames faulty house-painting for his problem when, actually, the paint deterioration may be due to a type or degree of insulation which forces escaping vapors to set up moisture "wells" between interior-exterior walls and consequent deterioration of the paint bond.

The Institute—and this organization is basically concerned with professional application—says "The consumer today can rely upon the technical information supplied to reputable dealers. Compliance with the instructions and other information which accompany all standard insulating materials will assure a satisfactory job."

The do-it-yourselfer or the contractor need have no apprehensions about too much or too little insulation if he follows these basic rules:

1. Buy standard quality materials only.
2. Take your dealer into complete confidence by letting him know all pertinent data pertaining to the structure to be insulated, dimensions and other specifics of the installation location, etc.

3. Rely upon dealer recommendations as to type of material (granular, batts, panels, etc.) for your individual project, and methods of installation.

A properly insulated home will be cooler in summer, warmer in winter, more healthful and clean. Fuel savings, to mention another probable gain, have amounted to as much as 40% after insulating.

Yes, insulating the home is still practical for do-it-yourself homeowners. Just beware of too much as well as too little.

James C. Williamson, St. Louis, reported at 2:45 a.m. Friday that as he was driving his motorbike at the Niedringhaus avenue rail crossing, a driver of a car sound of his horn, made an obscene gesture and struck the left side of the vehicle before speeding away easterly on Niedringhaus. The motor and the front of the bike were damaged.

Man Fined $110, Costs

Edward S. Burdness, 1910 Sixth street, East Madison, was fined $100 and costs on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor and $10 and costs on a charge of destruction of city property Friday by Magistrate Hiscott. A charge of reckless driving was continued. Madison police filed the charges July 1.

Demonstration of Pond Management Thursday

A pond management program will be held at the John Peradott farm Thursday at 2 p.m. with Roy Lockhart, state fishery biologist, giving a short explanation on the care, maintenance and management of farm and fish ponds, information on algae and weed control.

He will also give a pond shocking demonstration. Quad-Citizens with pond weed problems may bring samples of weeds for identification and treatment information.

From Edwardsville, to reach the pond, motorists may follow Route 143 to the County Highway Building and turn left on Pin Oak road; follow this road a half-mile; after crossing railroad tracks, turn to the right; and follow paved signs. Distance to the pond from Edwardsville is about three miles.

The demonstration will be sponsored jointly by the Illinois Division of Conservation, Extension Service, U. S. Agriculture Conservation Service and the Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District.

4-H Girls Qualify For State Fair in Flower Arranging

Selection of three 4-H club girls to represent Madison county in flower arranging at the Illinois State Fair in Springfield in August was a highlight of the 4-H Club Achievement Day held Thursday at the Trinity Lutheran school, Edwardsville.

The girls, selected on the basis of making the three best arrangements of the day, were: Andrea Driel, Junior Homemakers, Edwardsville; Elaine Tadlock, Tri-Hi, Granite City; and Jeanne Villard, Pleasant Grove, Collinsville.

Alternates chosen, in order, were: Deborah Heuser, Marine Scouts; Janice Neeve, Mary Merry Maids; and Virginia Hans, Mary Merry Maids.

Other Activities
This was just one phase of the three-day achievement program. Thursday's program also included judging of exhibits made in foods, table covers, picture study, photography, baby sitting, crafts, party planning, bird study and indoor gardening.

Judges for the day included Mrs. Marjorie Heusermann, St. Clair county home adviser, Mrs. Regina Rogers, Jersey county home adviser, Miss Janet Spears, St. Clair county summer assistant home adviser, Miss Barbara Ahering, Clinton county home adviser, and Miss Linda Foreman, Macoupin county assistant home adviser; flower arranging, Mrs. Rowena Lutz, home economics teacher, Lewis & Clark Junior high school, Wood River; and Mrs. Virgil Miller, Edwardsville.

Members of the Homemakers Extension Council and the County 4-H Committee helped with the day's program. Friday's program involved judging of all clothing exhibits and selection of girls to attend the State Fair in "dress review." With more than 100 girls enrolled in home economics projects, both days were busy ones for the girls, mothers, leaders and helpers.

Food Contest Planned
Concluding the project judging will be a food demonstration contest to be held at the Farm Bureau Building this Wednesday.

Table cover exhibits to go to the state fair were made by Marjorie Cooper, Mary Kathy Bravo, Granite City, and Kathie Meikamp, Edwardsville. It was announced today.

The photograph exhibit to be sent was made by Trella Sussan, Bethalto.

Chouteau Landfill Firm Defendant in Zoning Complaint
A complaint against the Chouteau Landfill Corp., operator of a dumping ground near the Chain of Rocks Bridge entrance on old Exposed, 60-40, charging violation of a state law requiring garbage and trash to be covered at the end of each operating day, was filed Friday by the office of State Attorney Joseph Bartylak.

The complaint also is directed against Leo Abel as an operator of the landfill operation. Hearing is set for Friday in the circuit court at Edwardsville.

The complaint was issued at the request of Jack Clifford, Madison county zoning administrator, after the dumping grounds allegedly continued to operate in violation of a closing order issued by the zoning commission.

The landfill was ordered closed July 1 after Joseph Trocicki, supervisor of Chouteau township, and Howard Kaseberg, chairman of the Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals, inspected the property.

At that time, Trocicki charged the dumping area was scattered with trash and refuse and that the dump operators were not covering garbage and trash as required not only by law but by a Madison county permit system, under which landfill operations were permitted on a month-to-month basis.

Continued To Operate
Clifford issued the closing order on grounds that the operation was not abiding by the regulations of the permit system. Following the shutdown, reports that trucks were continuing to go into the dumping grounds were received and Trocicki said he had been told that the dump intended to keep operating in spite of the shutdown order.

The dump has been one of the principal targets of the Chouteau town board in an extensive clean-up drive being conducted throughout the township in an effort to eliminate junk auto lots and unsightly conditions.

Complaints totaling 189, involving alleged zoning and health violations, were compiled by township officials over a 30-day period and filed with the zoning board. They are being checked by Clifford, who said some of the cases will come under the zoning board's jurisdiction and others will be handled by the Chouteau health commissioner.

Venice Ordinance For 10 Stop Signs Okayed by Council
Taking an opposite approach to that currently being considered in Granite City, the Venice city council Friday night adopted an ordinance creating 10 traffic stops at Venice street intersections to regulate traffic flow in and through the city. Granite City is considering elimination of some of its signs.

The ordinance was the outcome of recent suggestions by Venice aldermen concerning a need for additional stop streets, or relocation of previous stop locations, principally for the purpose of slowing traffic and permitting easier access to certain streets.

Council members advanced the ordinance to final passage stage and approved it. It will become a law within 10 days after publication. Violations carry a fine of fines up to $300 for each offense.

List of Stop Streets
The stop signs approved by the council will be erected at the: South side of Bissell street at Merceda street to regulate eastbound traffic on Bissell. South side of Bissell at Selb street to regulate eastbound traffic on Bissell. Northeast corner of Bissell and Merceda streets to regulate westbound traffic on Bissell. Southeast corner of Merceda and Logan streets to regulate northbound traffic on Merceda. Northwest corner of Merceda and Logan streets to regulate southbound traffic on Merceda. Southwest corner of Selb and Douglas streets to regulate southbound traffic on Selb. Southeast corner of Selb and Douglas streets to regulate northbound traffic on Selb.

Four Hubcaps Stolen
Carl Thornberry reported Thursday that four wire hubcaps were stolen from him 1958 auto while it was parked at his home during the previous night.

FINAL LINCOLN-DOUGLAS DEBATE took place at this site in Alton. Most of the places where the two debated in the late 1850s are marked by similar plaques.

Simple Marker at Site of Famed Lincoln-Douglas Debate

The site of the Lincoln-Douglas debate at Alton today is marked with a very inconspicuous stone, just off Broadway at the foot of Market street. The marker is on the edge of a large municipal parking lot, and many motorists hurry to it from many miles away to see the site of the famous debate.

Nearby is the site of Illinois' first state prison, its smallest and oldest, built during the Civil War days and a dark place in the history of the state. Looking south from the monument, one can see the broad Mississippi, the bridges leading to the Missouri shore, and the boats pushing their way up and downriver.

Prior to the Civil War when Lincoln and Douglas stumped the state, debating the slavery question, this spot marked the severe rain and final debate between the two illustrious men.

Crowd of 10,000
A crowd estimated at ten thousand people gathered to hear the debate at Alton today.

self could not stand, and that the states should be all-slave or all-free.

Predicted Crisis
Even at this date, Lincoln predicted that a giant crisis was fast approaching which would swing the country one way or the other. Lincoln was never called a prophet, but historians today realize that he knew the Civil War was fast approaching, even as he debated with Douglas in various sections of the Prairie State.

He wasn't a gloom-splendorist, but his keen insight and analytical mind showed him the rough path ahead.

Most of the spots where Lincoln and Douglas debated are marked by some kind of plaque, none of them elaborate, yet the simplicity of the markings even adds to their importance.

Pause at this spot in Illinois' Expedition Land: map a picture of the use of flags, reflectors or lights as warning devices when farm machinery is moved on the highways. Additional warning signals are being considered.

Overturning Tractors
Overturning tractors are frequent causes of death or serious injury. Strangely, the greatest number of such accidents occur when tractors are being operated on level ground, according to National Safety Council records. Driving or turning too fast, or pulling heavy loads are frequent causes.

Farmers use more chemicals, including herbicides and insecticides, than most persons. Strangers point to four keys to safety that should be followed in using chemicals.

Use the right chemical at the right time for the job; use recommended protective devices, clothing and cleaning practices when handling, and seek prompt first-aid or medical attention if toxic chemicals get on the body; store in locked cabinets or rooms; and dispose of left-over materials or containers safely. Labels should be read completely and the instructions followed.

Eat Light, Cool and Fresh

Ideally convenient for light, refreshing summer meals are the foods reported as likely to be particularly plentiful during July. Shoppers should find an abundance, during the next few weeks, of: fresh peaches, plums, watermelons, seasonal vegetables, frozen concentrated orange juice and milk and dairy products.

Peaches and plums — juicy handfuls of nutritious eating — both are headed for market in above average supply. The peach crop is expected to be three times bigger than last year's, while plums are likely to almost equal last year's record-high crop.

Abundant watermelons at relatively low prices are being during July as well, especially if the late spring and early summer crops come to market at the same time as expected.

The colorful vegetables associated with midsummer — such as sweet corn, cucumbers, green onions, green peppers, and tomatoes — also will be readily available.

Look for frozen concentrated orange juice to be featured at attractive-to-consumer prices this summer as the season's huge production comes to market.

And, one of the most economical sources of protein will be the versatile assortment of dairy products — all of which should continue abundant during July.

Barbecue Turkey for Summer Parties
Try barbecued turkey on a rotisserie for variety in your summer party menu. You'll need a smaller-than-sized turkey (6 to 13 pounds) or a boneless turkey roll. Plan on two and one-half to five hours of cooking, depending on the size of the bird you use.

Start your charcoal fire 30 to 40 minutes before cooking. Make an even bed of glowing coals two to three inches deep. Keep the coals to the rear of the firebox. Form a drip catch pan of heavy aluminum foil in the front portion of the firebox. You may need to replenish the coals as the turkey cooks.

Follow these suggestions for cooking whole turkey: Thaw turkey; remove giblets and neck from body and neck cavities. Wash, drain and pat dry. Sprinkle body cavity lightly with salt. Push drumsticks under band of skin at tail. If present, or tie drumsticks securely to tail. Fasten neck skin to back with skewer. Flatten wings over breast, and then tie cord around breast to hold wings securely. Do not stuff the bird.

Insert spit rod through the center of the bird from tail end.

toward front. Insert skewers firmly in place in tail, and fasten screws tightly. Be sure that the turkey balances on the spit so that it will rotate smoothly throughout cooking. Place spit in rotisserie and start motor as barbecue manufacturer directs.

Brush turkey with melted butter or margarine at beginning of cooking. When using a barbecue sauce, brush on bird the last 30 to 40 minutes of cooking only.

The turkey is done when a meat thermometer placed in the center of inside thigh muscle or thickest part of breast registers about 185 degrees F.

Here is a cooking timetable for whole turkeys: 6 to 8 pounds, 2 1/2 to 3 hours; 8 to 12 pounds, 3 to 4 1/2 hours; and 12 to 13 pounds, 4 to 5 hours. A cool dry or strong wind lengthens barbecue time by about 30 to 45 minutes.

Mix sure the juices from the cooking turkey run into the drip pan and not into the fire. Too much juice will put out the fire beneath the turkey.

Chemical, Tractor Mishaps Included In Farm Perils

Prevention of accidents involving slow-moving vehicles or accidents in the use of chemicals and electricity is among objects of emphasis for National Farm Safety Week set for July 25-31.

Frank Bridges of the Southern Illinois University Safety Center pointed out that the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture are sponsoring the 2nd annual rural safety campaign, proclaimed by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The latest breakdown shows accidents to farm residents took 8400 lives and injured 780,000 other persons last year. Of the fatalities, 3600 involved motor vehicles, 2000 were in the home, 2600 were from work accidents and the rest from other kinds of mishaps.

The accidents cost American farm folks $1.5 billion.

Research has shown that about nine out of ten collisions between automobiles and slow-moving vehicles are caused by night hours on good roads under fair weather conditions.

Farm tractors and machinery are involved in three-fourths of the accidents involving slow-moving vehicles, and in two-thirds of the instances the vehicle is hit from the rear.

Such accidents occur in spite of the use of flags, reflectors or lights as warning devices when farm machinery is moved on the highways. Additional warning signals are being considered.

Overturning tractors are frequent causes of death or serious injury. Strangely, the greatest number of such accidents occur when tractors are being operated on level ground, according to National Safety Council records. Driving or turning too fast, or pulling heavy loads are frequent causes.

Farmers use more chemicals, including herbicides and insecticides, than most persons. Strangers point to four keys to safety that should be followed in using chemicals.

Use the right chemical at the right time for the job; use recommended protective devices, clothing and cleaning practices when handling, and seek prompt first-aid or medical attention if toxic chemicals get on the body; store in locked cabinets or rooms; and dispose of left-over materials or containers safely. Labels should be read completely and the instructions followed.

Work at Mound May Make It a Major Tourist Attraction

Centuries-old secrets of Illinois' largest prehistoric man-made structure are being probed this summer by archeologists from the University of Illinois and Washington University of St. Louis.

The structure is Monk's Mound, 100 feet high, covering 16 acres, located on the Mississippi River bottomland south of Interstate Highway 55-70, near Collinsville road.

Excavations are under the direction of Charles J. Bareis of the department of anthropology in the U. of I. College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and James W. Porter of Washington University.

Porter, formerly of the U. of I., is immediate past president of the Illinois Archeological Survey, of which Bareis is secretary-treasurer.

Stairway to Temples
Bareis and four students from Illinois will dig into the mound's long southward slope which may have been a prehistoric stairway to temples at the summit. They also will explore the first of four terraces or levels at the top.

Students are Bennett Williams, 4480 N. Kasson avenue,

Myrtle Fields, Mrs. Nadine McLean and daughter, Julia, M. S. Ruth Canner, Mrs. Helen Gantcheff, Mrs. Hilda Frowland, Mrs. Bernadine Reinhardt, Mrs. Beulah Daviny, Mrs. Ellen Dwyer, Mrs. Paula Smith, Lee Daviny and daughter, Linda, Hargis, Dora Mae MacIntyre and Karen, Kim and Kent Boeding.

Games were enjoyed by the women and several prizes were awarded.

Women's Club Meets
Mrs. Jessie Foley, president, presided at a business session of the Venice Women's Democratic club Thursday evening at the Old Fellows hall. Various reports were given and cheer cards were sent to hospitalized members.

Games were enjoyed and prizes were awarded. A two-course luncheon was served by Mrs. I. E. Hargis, hostess for the evening.

Others present were Mrs. Betty Ritz, Kent Boeding and Cindy Guffy, guests, and Mrs. Mabel McGee, Mrs. Ellen Creamer, Hazel Painter, Mrs. Laura Foley, Mrs. Bess Neill, Mrs. Marie Mangi, Mrs. Viola Edmiston, Mrs. Jackie Leatherman, Mrs. Mary Lou McKinney, Mrs. Opal Caudron, Mrs. Frances Cowley, Mrs. Audrey Brown, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Emily Adams, Mrs. Myrtle Fields, Mrs. Stella Loftus, Mrs. Angeline Scatturo, Mrs. Anne Shamrock, Mrs. Betty Gaffey.

The next meeting will be held Aug. 19 with Mrs. Rose Thompson serving as hostess.

Two-Country Council
A Madison-Rand counties council meeting of the American Legion and Auxiliaries was held Wednesday evening at Post 363 in Collinsville.

Mrs. Dorothy Kihlbas, president, presided at the business session for the Auxiliary. It was announced that installation of county officers will be held Aug. 18 in Highland, and the joint installation of officers for Post 307 will be held at the Venice-Madison region home July 31 at 8 p.m.

Slides of Bennett Cottage, Normandy, Ill., were shown by Mrs. Leona Best, Collinsville, 22nd district child welfare chairman. The cottage for children of veterans is sponsored by the district.

Ten units were represented, and those from Post 307 attending were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Austin, Kenneth Hinson, Miss Dorothy Hinson, Mrs. Hazel Hinson and Mrs. Mary Ballentine.

LARGEST IN NORTH AMERICA, this prehistoric man-made structure is well known here as Monk's Mound. This corner, it is the site of excavations by archeologists from the University of Illinois and Washington University of St. Louis. U. of I. archeologists are digging into the long south slope of mound to learn if it was a prehistoric stairway to the top. Others, under Washington University leadership, are working on top to reveal sites of buildings once there.

Work at Mound May Make It a Major Tourist Attraction

Chicago; Everett E. Hale Jr., 140 N. Wolf road, Wheeling, Richard Thompson, 210 W. Ver, Kay Mitchell, 201 S. Mill street, Edwardsville.

The archeology expedition is a part of the university's summer session. It provides a laboratory in archeological field work and in study and preparation of materials found.

Before beginning on the mound, they worked nearby in Portmout City in the prehistoric Chickasaw village area, where they excavated sites of ancient homes to study everyday life of the inhabitants.

Announced for 8 Centuries
Porter began work last summer on the highest terrace of Monk's Mound, and continued there. Trenches showed that a road of wood covers all structural remains, and he believes a reconstruction job was under way when the mound was abandoned 800 to 1000 years ago.

At least one earlier such reconstruction took place, as shown by evidence of still earlier structures at a deeper level under still another layer of earth.

Work this summer may help Monk's Mound and the surrounding state park to become one of the great tourist attractions of Illinois.

Coastline's Biggest City
In prehistoric times it was a major feature of the continent's largest city, a metropolis extending across the Mississippi bottomlands.

It was the largest of numerous mounds which were places for worship similar to the "pyramids" or raised temple platforms of Central America. This city was part of an ancient civilization extending from Central America through the Gulf of Mexico up the Mississippi River.

In Mexico and Central America, such structures are stone-masonry buildings with prominent staircases leading to the top. Similar stairs of wood may have led to the top of Monk's Mound.

Reconstruction Proposed
Workers under Bareis will seek evidence of these and, if found, reconstruct them so today's Americans may see this feature as it existed centuries ago.

Porter is seeking to learn about structures were on top of the mound, and may reconstruct part of them on their original sites.

A major feature which he discovered last summer was evidence of a post at least two feet in diameter located in almost the precise center of the highest terrace of the mound. This probably had ceremonial significance.

New Post in Center
A tall new post has been placed in the spot as the first reconstruction.

Labor for this summer's excavation and reconstruction is being provided by East St. Louis Neighborhood Youth Corps workers.

Funds for last year were raised primarily by Nelson A. Reed, St. Louis, who again is assisting in many ways. Under his direction, a typical house of the people who lived and worshipped here was built in the prehistoric village area at the foot of the mound.

Several more houses, with mud-covered stick walls and thatched roofs, may be built as features of the state park which surrounds and protects the mound.

Indians who built Monk's Mound are referred to by archeologists as "Middle Mississippian." They once lived along the great river from the Gulf into Wisconsin.

Monk's Mound gets its name from Roman Catholic Trappist monks who lived near the mound on both sides of the street, but in the 19th century and until they died.

RETURN FROM FLORIDA
Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Koelker and children, Maurice and David, 615 Jefferson avenue, returned home Thursday evening from a ten-day trip to Daytona Beach, Fla. Side trips were taken to Silver Springs, Florida Caverns, "Gin Territory," "Reptile Land" and Cape Kennedy.

Some time was spent at Port City, Tenn., on the way to Daytona Beach. Kenzie home, visited in Montgomery, Ala., with a son-in-law and daughter. Norman (ret-cold) and Mrs. Fred Brooks and children, Rhonda and Cathy. They also toured Fort Gunter, Air Force Base, Montgomery.

PARTY WEDNESDAY FOR STORY HOUR CHILDREN
The last in a series of four "story hours" was held Friday morning at the Venice public library under the supervision of Mrs. Sybil Robles, assistant librarian.

A party for children who have participated in the program will be held Wednesday, July 21, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. The group will assemble at the library and proceed from there to Lee Park.

A total of 374 children attended the book "Jack and the Beanstalk," and Diane Mahonick received the book, "Twins at Meadowbrook Farm."

"Johnny Appleseed" was the theme throughout the series, with short stories and color cartoons being included in the program. A study of Mexico was enjoyed by the group, and the children were taught the Mexican "chat dance" at Friday's meeting.

Mrs. Robles was assisted by Miss Jane Shelton and Miss Elise Vane, employees of the library, and by Kenneth Patterson.
